Capitol Hill Typewriters Are Humming; Books by Legislators to Hit Market

A new series of original paperbacks devoted to the writings of Congressmen has been announced by the Macfadden-Bartell Corp. The first two books, which will go on sale in mid-September, are "A Program for Conservatives" by Sen. John G. Tower (R-Tex.) and "Inside the New Frontier" by Sen. Vance Hartke (D-Ind.) and John M. Redding.

Tower, a prominent conservative senator, was the first Republican elected to the Senate from Texas since the Reconstruction and, at 37, is the youngest senator in the 87th Congress. His book offers some bold new thoughts on American policy at home and abroad as he supplies some lucid answers in his treatise on conservatism. The introduction of this Capitol Hill Book is by Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.).

The Hartke-Redding book takes an inside look at the New Frontier, its policies, leaders, and problems. Sen. Hartke holds the fourth highest position of the majority leadership—Chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee. Redding, a former Assistant Postmaster General in the second Truman Administration, is currently Treasurer of the Democratic National Congressional Committee.

Some of the other Capitol Hill Books which will be published during the next year are:

"The Story of the U.S. Constitution" by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-N.C.); "A Liberal's Answer to the Conservative Challenge" by Sen. Eugene McCarthy (D-Minn.); "Land, Wood and Water" by Sen. Robert S. Kerr (D-Okla.), with an introduction by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson; "Trade and Tariffs" by Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.); "Can Small Businesses Survive?" by Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wisc.); and "Subversives" by Sen. Thomas Dodd (D-Conn.).

All of the above books are originals except "Land, Wood and Water," which will be updated when it is issued as a Capitol Hill Book.

Macfadden's all-time best-seller, "The Conscience of a Conservative" by Sen. Barry Goldwater, will be re-designed and reissued in the Capitol Hill Series. Sen. Goldwater's book is just going into its 18th printing and has sold over 4 million copies.
